

TERRORISM AWARENESS

ABOUT THIS COURSE

INTRODUCTION

There are now new terrorists and terrorist groups that have no state or national alliance. They have aims that are often very difficult for governments and people to accept or understand and so the violence will continue across borders, continents and around the world. Of concern is the increasing number of attacks and the level of fear they now achieve through increasing the scale of death and horror and bringing such fear closer to innocent civilian in the form of recent lone wolf style attacks. Ensuring your staff are aware of how terrorists operate and by teaching what to look out for, then this course will go some way to ensuring that your organisation and staff are better prepared to react to more situations.
