

This is the compelling story of two nice people, Pablo and Diane.

Diane is a talented purchasing manager at a large logistics company. Her work is good, but her boss wanted more data on the suppliers she's working with, so she had to analyze them for their financial accounts. But she didn't know what to do with them.

Pablo owns a local muffin shop. It's profitable, and he gets along well with his customers, but that just wasn't good enough. He wanted to expand, but barely kept account of the expenses and didn't know where to start.

So, they both decided to get the prestigious MBA! They were saved! Or were they? What about the bakery and Diane's job? They can't just take a year off, and lose up all their vacation money!

Luckily, they both found ENTREPRENABLE.

An online strategic financial management fountain of wisdom! Without boring Jargon?! That you can study anywhere, at anytime?

It'll teach Pablo how to keep track of the bakery's cash flow, and Diane will learn all about judging the supplier's abilities!

Pablo can even practice his new skills without wasting any delicious vanilla muffins, using the interactive business GAME!

A few days later, Diane finally understood all the statements her suppliers gave her, and made a wonderful strategy to boost the company's efficiency! She even got a promotion!
