IOSH Safety for Executives and Directors by eLearning

About the course

The IOSH Safety for Executives and Directors course is a seven-hour eLearning programme designed for senior managers. The course will not make you a safety expert, but it will tell what you need to do to meet your safety accountabilities as a senior manager, and to ensure effective management of health and safety in your organisation.

This course is delivered in a highly interactive format for eLearning on any device, allowing learners to study at their own pace, working remotely or from office locations.

Why should I study this course?

This course is accredited by the Institution of Occupational Safety and Health (IOSH) and upon successful completion, learners will be awarded an IOSH Safety for Executives and Directors Certificate.

As part of the course, learners will complete a 'Statement of personal commitment', identifying the actions they intend to complete within their own organisation as a result of the course.

Programme

The course covers:

- The legal, moral and financial role of operational directors, including their responsibilities, liabilities and accountabilities, both personal and organisational;
- The importance of safety and health at top-management level in order to minimise risk, reduce losses and make better use of time and resources;
- Developing and implementing a safety and health policy, and integrating it into business systems;
- The value of an adequately resourced and efficient safety and health management system;
- The benefits of good safety and health management systems, the consequences of failing to manage effectively, and how to ensure internal controls are working;
- The importance of reviewing and continually improving management systems, especially following change or failure;
- The impact an organisation's leaders can have on its performance through their attitude and support for improving its safety culture; and
- setting key performance indicators and targets, together with performance monitoring and review for continual improvement in safety and health management.

Benefits of eLearning

Tailored content

International Workplace can tailor the content of the IOSH Safety for Senior Executives course by eLearning, so that it fits within your company’s safety culture and framework. Allow us to incorporate your existing safety procedures into the course, so that delegates work with documents and policies they are familiar with, and really get to see how theory translates into practice. Not only will this bring the safety message home, but managers can see where the gaps are in their existing procedures, and work to ensure their company is putting health and safety right at the top of the agenda.
